

offers shipowners a smart and secure solution that should simplify complex ordering processes. Once new data or orders entered in CFM Purchase, these could be seen at any time via smartphone or tablet even while traveling. A new feature as well is the possibility of doing notes, for example which products are still missing or are defect. If anybody does an important entry, users get an acoustic signal. Furthermore the cheapest prices of the products are automatically displayed. Users could also get real time overviews about requisitions, inquiries, orders and deliveries. For example they can inform where to find the ordered products. To use the module, it just needs a working internet connection.

By using the software solution fleet managers could save a lot of time in the transmission of orders. Because of the so called real-time budgeting, a change in budget will be displayed immediately, so the relevant people could do optimal budgeting and planning. A visual representation of the budget matrix is possible, too. In different colours users easily could see which payments are still pending and which have been done already. As other solutions of Hanseaticsoft the CFM Purchase application should simplify the processes and to reduce the e-mail traffic.
